

Special identification methods of alkali reactive aggregates

Dr. Wolff

Institut f. Analytische Chemie der Kern-Forschungsanlage Jülich
West Germany

SUMMARY

Seven reactive substances were investigated with the following analysis methods

1. IR-Measurements,
2. Microprobe Analysis,
3. X-ray Diffraction,
4. Inorganic Analysis.

The results of the research show, that maybe in future IR-Measurements are a method for comparative identification of reactive rock types.